

Illawarra Mercury

09-Feb-2011

Page: 24

General News

Market: Wollongong NSW

Circulation: 26448

Type: Regional

Size: 51.02 sq.cms

Frequency: MTWTFS-

Chance to Upskill

A REGISTERED training organisation called Upskilled is offering Wollongong residents the chance to boost their career prospects via a new campaign to fine tune Australia's workforce.

Wollongong is one of the first areas to roll out the Upskilling Australia initiative.

Upskilled's mission is to provide free professional training courses to individuals across Australia.

The organisation is now keen to hear from Illawarra residents who think they might deserve to be awarded a fully-funded training course in a subject of their choice.

Courses range from business administration and human resource management to project management.

Those interested in applying for the free training are invited to describe in no more than 150 words why they should be offered such a course and send it to entries@upskillingaustralia.com.au by February 28. Further information at www.upskilled.edu.au.